POLITICAL COLONIZATION

Correspondence Given Showing the Interest of Republican Leaders in the Work-Several States to Have Been Cared For.

Naw York, October & The World of Saturday printed as Washington correspondence a long article, containing correspondence between the parties to the pian, showing forth a scheme having for its object the colonization by negro Republican voters of the States of Indiana, Connecticut and West Virginia. The originator of this idea was Daniel McD. Lindsey, a Republican of North Carolina, and it is charged that Senator Quay, as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, was ready to aid and abet Lindsey in carrying out the scheme of vote importing. To quote from the article:

the article:

"The correspondence which follows is a complete narrative in itself. The inception of the scheme, its approval by Quay and other prominent Republican leaders, its indorsement by Representatives in Congress whose political fortunes were to be forwarded by it, are learly set forth by documentary evidence that can not be rebutted or explained away. The fac similies of a number of the letters presented constitute a highly interesting exhibit.

"From the correspondence it appears that D. McD. Lindsey began his work as long ago as May 22. 1889, when, as he says, he discussed his scheme with Edward McPherson, of Pennyivania, since chosen to be Clerk of the House of Representatives. McPherson referred him to Senator Quay, who immediately indorsed the colonization scheme and referred it, with his approval, to his henchmen Clarkson and Dudley. Lindsey was thoroughly familiar with the methods that would carry his plan through successfully. His record as a colonizer is one to be proud of. When he undertook this special mission he was secretary of the Southern Emigration Company. He was a randidate for Congress on the Republican be proud of. When he undertook this special mission he was secretary of the Southern Emigration Company. He was a candidate for Congress on the Republican intent from the First District of North Carolina in 1876, but was deleated. In 1882 he got himself into serious trouble, and was accused of taking 200 department clerks from Washington to North Carolina to serve as deputy marshals. This he did under the direction of J. J. Mott, Chairman of the State Executive Committee of North Carolina. In 1887 he took 111 negroes to East Orange, N. J., at the time of a local labor trouble, and was driven out of town with stones and brick-bats. The same year he took a number to Maryland and located them as laborers.

"For one of his deputies in the work he had undertaken, Lindsey selected J. B. Whitchead, a North Carolinan, whose experience as a colonizer was quite as thorough as his own. Several years ago Whitchead carried so many negroes from North Carolina that he depleted the labor market, and a committee of seven-leen citizens of the State waited upon him and ordered him to leave on penalty of lynching."

Lindsey, in a long letter to Whitchead, speaks of interviews with Edward McPherson, with Quay, and refers to his correspondence with the latter. Lindsey says in this letter, speaking of Quay:

"On the 19th of August I wrote him, calling his attention to what he had told, or promised, me at Chamberlin's, and said to him if it was not convenient to furnish the entire amount promised, to turnish me with enough to arrange the preliminary work. He at once inclosed my letter to General Clarkson, with an indorsement requesting the money to be furnished me, and on the 17th of August wrote me, saying: 'I have your letter of the 10th, and have forwarded it through Mr. Clarkson, with such an indorsement as you suggest. "General Clarkson saw Colonel Dudley and Dudley said he had no funds in hand belonging to the committee; that he had furnished 1863 of his own funds for the committee, and that would have to last a while. I did not Please act promptly, etc. I expect to be in Washington within two weeks and will then see you."

Letters from Quay to Lindsey are published showing his indorsement of the scheme and one is as follows:

"Dean Sire—I have your letter of the 10th inst., and have forwarded it to Mr. Clarkson, with an indorsement such as you suggest. Yours truly,

M. S. Quay."

The following letter from United States Treasurer Huston to Lindsey is printed:

"Washington, D. C., May 6, 1889,
"Hon, Mod. Lindsey:

"Dean Sire—I am in receipt of your note dated May 5. I regret that Mr. Miller could not have given you the time that would have allowed or a full explanation being made of your project. I feel sure that he, like myself, would have been satisfied that the proposed work would have enabled us to save Indiana. I myself am heartily in favor of it, and at the first opportunity will speak to the President about it, or will, if opportunity would offer, talk to Mr. Miller, though I don't believe he could be made to feel the same interest in it that I do. He has never taken much interest in practical politics. Of course I could not ask you to remain here in the city until I could learn what we could do with regard to Indiana. Don't know, in fact, when I will be able to talk with the Presidentabout the matter. If you will send me your address when you leave, as soon as I have talked with the President, I will communicate with you. Truly yours.

Active operations were begun by Lindsey, Whitehead being the active agent. However, Whitehead attempted to kill himself, September 28, at Kanawha, where he drank considerable and became despondent.

The World prints this paragraph in regard to Quay's interest in the Lindsey plan:

"This scheme testifies at once to the ingenuity of Quay and his agent, and to the surreme contempt in which Quay holds the lawful and beneficent purposes of the institutions of his country. It likewise explains in a large measure Quay's action in forcing on his party a postponement of the force bill, which to many of his ing of candidates for the Legislature written pledges that they would work for the interest of the farmers, for a reduction of fees and salaries, and for free coinage of silver. The Republican membership opposed the resolutions, claiming that the Alliance in Hamilton County must remain non-partisan. Thereupon the Democratic members boiled the convention and left the room in a body, causing great excitement for a time.

A TERROR TO IDAHO. Two Men Create a Little Excitement by Holding Up Saloon-Keepers-

CHICAGO, October 6.-A special from Denver says: Information received from Mullen, Idaho, announces the killing of Ed Stacey by E. A. Davidson. Stacey and his partner, Bassett, figured in nearly all the trouble that Bassett, figured in nearly all the trouble that occurred at that noted place, Bottsville. Stacey and Bassett, who have been a terror to Idaho, concluded that they would create a little excitement by robbing every saloon from Bottsville to Sturgis, in Montana. Disguising themselves with masks and putting on old clothes they started on their expedition. The first place they came to they only found 30 cents. They then killed the proprietor because he did not have more money. In the next saloon they found nine men engaged in a poker game, and, walking in with a revolver in each hand, they commanded all to throw up their hands, which was instantly done.

manded all to throw up their hands, which was instantly done.

Stacey held his revolver on the men while his partner, Bassett, searched them, getting about $200. Crossing the road to another saloon they broke the door down and were going to "do up" the saloon-keeper, who was sleeping there. Young Davidson was sleeping in the saloon. As soon as the desperadoes stepped inside of the door they began shooting at Davidson, who was sitting on the bed. Davidson returned the fire and brought down Stacey.

The Sixth Massachusetts Congressional Democratic convention was remarkable from the act that it took its candidate from outside its own district, D. The reason for this action was, as practically stated by Chairman Morgan, that there was no available Democrat in the Sixth District who would be pitted against Mr. Lodge.

A reasonable rate is charged, but it is claimed much more liberal rates obtain from Danville, Ill., and Coxville, Ind., where the managers are interested in developing mines owned by themselves. E. Shumaler and Jacob Raum were admitted into local deacon's orders.

Bishop Taylor, of Africa; Dr. Bennett, of Garrett Biblical Institute, and President John, of De Pauw, were introduced to the conference. Miss Howard, missionary to Korea, and Bishop Taylor then addressed the conference in behalf of missions. In the evening Dr. W. H. Hickman, of Clark University at Atlanta, Ga., spoke in the interest of Southern education.

Every pulpit in town was filled three times yesterday by distinguished visitors. Atter the sermon of Dr. John at the Methodist Church in the morning, Bishop Fowler performed the ordination of deacons. Dean Howe, of De Pauw, presided at the new Methodist pipe organ. Bishop Taylor addressed the Y. M. C. A. at 4:30 in the afternoon and preached in the Methodist Church at night. Dr. Henry A. Bucktel, of Denver, occupied the Center Church pulpit in the morning, and Dr. John addressed the students at the college chapel in the afternoon.

At this morning's session of the Conference the parchments of C. O. Stallard were returned. The Committee on Education reported, but was instructed to make stronger the position of the church as upholding the public schools and opposing all forms which seem to destroy them. A resolution favoring the abolition of compulsory attendance at Sunday Chapel at DePauw was lost. Dr. John briefly addressed the conference in behalf of DePauw University. It was decided that churches in this conference should hold elections on November 19, 20 or 21, on the question, "Shall women be admitted as lay delegates to the general conference." Rev. S. P. Colvin, Rev. C. H. Cissel, Clem Studebaker and A. R. Colturn were elected to represent the conference at the ecumenical conference in 1891. The C. H. Cissel, Clem Studebaker and A. R. The Committee on Sabbath Observance reported against Sunday base ball, excursions and newspapers, and against having the World's Fair open on Sunday. Several other Rev. Frost Craft read the report, which de-plored the laxity of the church members and ome preachers on popular amusements, and tated that conversions were not as stated that conversions were not as many in proportion as were formerly. It deplored the political methods used in the church to obtain office, and recommended that bishops be elected for a term of eight years. The report was defended by Mr. Craft and Dr. W. H. Hickman, and warmly denounced by S. P. Colvin, R. D. Utter and others. Personalities were indulged in, and Bighop Fowler had to call several speakers to order. The report was finally adopted, with the exception of the part relating to the election of Bishops.

PITTSBURG, October 6 .- A special from Washington, Pa., says: Word has just reached here of a strange and probably fatal accident which occurred on a farm near Candor. Ladshaw found a small bottle which conained a quantity of nitro glycerine, and being ignorant of its nature, she thought it was carbon oil and took it home. Thursday evening, the fire refusing to burn, she emptied the bottle in the kitchen stove, when a temendous explosion tollowed. The house was completely torn away, and Mr. Ladshaw received injuries which will probably prove iatal. Both legs were broken and mangled, and one hand was corapletely torn from his body. Mrs. Ladshaw was cut about the face in a shocking manner. Their little three-year-old boy was burned about the face and hands. NEW INSTITUTE BUILDING

A Plan For Buildings That Would Be Good For Fatr or Foul Weather-Points Involved in the Agitation.

The Executive Committee of the State Board of Agriculture (which board is the "sole proprietor" of the State Fair) is in session. Nominally, the business in hand is the settlement of the accounts growing out of the late pumpkin show. The matter of real interest to the public is: what will the commit-tee suggest in the way of an improvement of terest to the public is: what will the committees suggest in the way of an improvement of the State Fair? Treasurer Johnson reported receipts to date from the late Fair $20,580 not including railroad coupon tickets and other sources of revenue not yet at hand. Some of the board are of the opinion that had the railroads run into the Fair grounds the receipts would have been $5,000 more on Thursday alone.

Several members of the committee individually expressed the belief that the time is at hand when something must be done to relieve the overcrowded grounds and buildings. In the woman's department, for instance, one member expressed the belief that one-third of the goods offered for exhibition have not been seen at all by the committees. Outside the building the unavoidable confusion growing out of overcrowding was so great that the experts could not attend to their work. The side shows with their iron-tongued fakirs were particularly annoying.

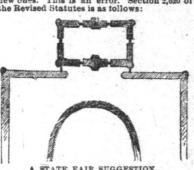

Several propositions for a new Fair site were presented to the committee. Mrs. Personett offered 100 acres north of the city on the Belt at $500 an acre, and spoke of sixty acres more that could be hadat the same price. The Tate farm, near Irvington, 140 acres, now belonging to N. S. Byram, was said to be available at about $300 an acre. Henry Schurman offered the board 234 acres beyond the extension of Indiana avenue, near the Belt, as an available site.

The popular demand for an improvement in the State Fair, modern and ample buildings so connected that visitors can pass from one to another without exposure to the weather and a mile race track, is increasing every day. When the matter was mentioned to a member of the Board of Agriculture last summer, he said; "Don't publish anything about it now, for it will injure the Fair this fall. We couldn't do anything before that anyway, and no good can come from agitating the matter now."

The present State Fair Grounds contain fifty-six acres. An eighty-acre tract of ground, in the usual form in which such bodies are laid out would be half a mile long and one-lourth of a mile wide. By a careful arrangement of buildings and track, it is believed this amount of land would be ample for one of the finest Fairs in the country. A STATE FAIR SUGGESTION.

suggestion rather than a definite plan for the arrangement of the buildings and track so that communication might be quick and comfortable between all departments. The sheds or barns extending along either side of the race course would be for live stock, poultry, etc. The various buildings about the rectangular court, might be, for example, a woman's hall, foral hall, horticultural and agricultural hall, art hall, machinery hall and carriage hall. The court itself by means of fountains, walks, trees and landscape gardening could be made a beautiful spot and one of the most attractive of all the attractions of the place. A smaller ring for the display of cattle, draught horses, colts, etc., could be placed inside the race course.

HUMOROUS MINISTERS

ous in Discussion. The ministers of this city gathered this morning in union meeting for the first time after vacation adjournment. Only nineteen were present and they were semewhat humorously inclined. When Rev. J. P. Cowan, as Seretary and Treasurer on request made a report of twenty-four cents expended, Rev. E. P. Whallon asked that the matter be reierred to an auditing committee. Rev. H. A. Cleveland, happening to have no money with him, as he said thought it would be a good time to make a collection for re mbursement. A resolution was passed after the morning's discussion requesting the Y. M. C. A. to grease its gymnasium apparatus, squeaking below, or give them another room to meet in.

Rev. H. A. Edson read a paper on "Minister.al Preparation." A true minister, he said, must be a true Christian. The minister, he thought, should be sure that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than a sect, that he cared more for Christ than set, the theorem of the head that the great want is the want of prayer. He urged a closer study of God's word rather than the words of men. Ministers should steep their souls in the Bible. Attention was called to Christ's prayers before and after any great work, as an example of the duty of communing with God.

Revs. Dr. J. S. Jenckes, M. L. Haines, W. A. Hendrickson, R. V. Hunter and E. P. Whallon thought the paper wholesome in its urgency of prayer and greater spirituality in the life of the minister. Rev. D. R. Lucas thought growth in prayer a matter of individual experience, rather than general. Whether many hours should be spent in prayer or not was a question with the individual.

Rev. H. A. Clevelaud liked the paper as far as it The ministers of this city gathered this morning in union meeting for the first time

Rev. F. M. Dexter also thought the paper in-complete. He thought the minister, in addi-tion to prayer and study, should get ac-quainted with nature, know the woods and birds, breathe God's pure air and mingle with the people. Christ's preparation had been that of a laboring man. To use illustrations from every day nature and life gave preaching more the air of authority than to take them from books. from books.

Seventh street, was dedicated yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Bishop Knickerbacker, assisted by Professor James Lyons, of the school, and the choir of Grace Cathedral, escorted visitors through the building.

In the assembly room after a short song service the Bishop delivered an address, speaking of the educational work of the bpiscopal Diocese of Indiana. Samuel Lee Johnson came from Ohio in 1843, and the labor of him and his wife resulted in the St. Mary's School, attended by from forty to one hundred pupils from 1843 to 1848. Mr. Johnson's sister continued the work after his death but the school lasted only a few years. Some of the leading women in the diocese to-day had attended the school. Bishop Talbott made the next effort, and St. Anna's School came into existence for three or four years. When Bishop Knickerbacker came to the Indiana Diocese he found the church had no school, but, although dissuaded by friends, he resolved to establish one. He spoke of the remarkable progress of the school under Mr. Lyons. Rev. Dr. J. S. Jenckes congratulated the young ladies upon their new building.

Some finishing touches are yet to be made in the building, which is well adapted to its purposes. The school room is furnished by pupils of the old St. Mary's Seminary. The school opens in its new location with sixty pupils from this and neighboring cities. Three years ago there were but twelve pupils, all from Indianapolis.

TO BE PRESENTED TO-NIGHT.

It Secures the City from Damages and Fixes the Responsibility-Foot Bridge at Illinois St. Considered-Indemnity.

City Attorney Taylor has completed the viaduct ordinance, which will be presented to the Council to-night. Whether it will be passed or an attempt made to nass it remains to be seen. "I believe that the city, by this ordinance, is amply protected," said Mr. Taylor, both from any damage that may result from the building or the viaduct or the releasing of the railroad company from the building of the viaduct at Meridian street. I don't see how it could be improved upon."

The ordinance provides for the repeal of the ordinance to vacate a portion of Meridian street for Union Railway purposes and the building of a viaduct and lootbridge over the street so vacated.

The ordinance says that as it is deemed advisable that a viaduct be erected on Virginia avenue, between Maryland and Louisiana streets, that this ordinance be adopted instead of the ordinance of 1888.

Section 1. Relates to the repealing of the old ordinance and the Railway Company's written ac ceptance thereof upon the following terms and conditions.

The News and the Census. Two years ago, just after the Presi-lential election of 1888, The News estimated the population of Indianapolis at 107,652. The official count of the Census Bureau is 107,445. We take some just ride in citing this. It is an illustration The News's endeavor in all things to Il the truth as it sees it. We made our te of two years ago thus: In 1880 population by the census was 75,056. the election of that year the town 19,664 votes. This was one vote to 3.81 of population. In the Novemtion of 1888 the town cast 26,554 Applying the same ratio of votes

1888-had been, according to this estinate, 26,076, which was a yearly average of 3,260 in round numbers. Doubling this for the two years to come-1888 to 1890-made 6,520, and adding it to the 101,132 we arrived at 107,652, as our population for this year-a difference in excess red at the Postoffice at Indianapolis, Ind. | from the census count of 207. We think the difference should be greater still in the same direction, for, as we said of our estimate at the time, the increase of the last two years would be a little greater proporionately than the average increase of the first eight years, so that we might fairly expect something more than 107,652, "But," we added, "it seems probable that the census will not credit Indianapolis with more than 110,000."

Recalling the undercount that is complained of everywhere and the number of omissions that occurred here until public sentiment was aroused about it, it remains probable that Indianapolis is closer to 110,000 than to the 107,445 that the census has given us, or than to the 107,652 which we approximated. Still it is apparent that substantially the census count is correct. But it is to be borne in mind that really "Indianapolis" is much more than this; for "Indianapolis" really is the suburbs also that lie all around and which have sprung up in the last ten years, and valued at only $5,000. Fraulein Helene Lange is said to be one of the most influential women in Germany at the present time. She is a lecturer and essayist, with a remakable power of critical analysis and originality of thought. Twenty years ago she went to Berlin to make that city her permanent home. She was called to the principalship of a training school for teachers, and by her efforts in bringing a petition before the Prussian House of Deputies she materially raised the standard of education for women.

WINNERS IN THE NATIONAL AND BROTHERHOOD BALL LEAGUES.

Cincinnati League Team Sold to the Brotherhood-Will Indianapolis Fill the Hole !- The Ball Season Closing.

The Cincinnati League team has been sold to the Brotherhood. The negotiations which have been under way for some time were closed Saturday night. The sale makes a vacancy in the League, and the question arises: "Will Indianapolis fill the gap?" It was promised when Indianapolis was forced out that it should go back into the League again as soon as there was a vacancy. President Brush is non-committal on the subject, but there isn't much probability of the League putting a clab in here next season. The question will come up for settlement at a League mesting to be held in New York Wednesday. Mr. Brush went to Chicago last night and tomorrow will go to New York to attend the meeting.

The League and Brotherhood have finished the championship season of 1890. Brootlyn won the League pennant, with Chicago second and Boston stands at the head of the Brother and Boston stangs at the nead of the Brosher-hood with Brooklyn second in the race. The old Indianapolis club (the New Yorks) stands sixth in the League. The clubs of the two or-ganizations quit in these positions: NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Amusements. The Downing company closed at the Grand on Saturday night, presenting "Damon and Pythias." To-night there will be a decided lovelty to the local stage, in the presentation of "The World's Fair," which is designed to illustrate in a humorous and extravagant way the coming international event at Chicago. The extravaganza is the work of Paul M. Pot-ter, author of "The City Directory," and the production will be illustrated by a company production will be illustrated by a company which includes a score and more of prominent vocalists and comedians.

"Braving the World" is a comedy-drama with sensational features, produced at the Park this afternoon, and which will continue the attraction until Friday, when it will be replaced by a new piece, "Doncaster Station."

Hallen and Hart, comedians, tavorites in this city, will open at English's on Thursday night, remaining the rest of the week, in their new version of "Later On." New songs and specialties have replaced the old ones, and eight new people have been added to the "t. The Countess Magri, known to the public as Mrs. General Tom Thumb, accompanied by her husband and his brother, also midgets, and surrounded by a specialty, company, will and surrounded by a specialty, company, will be at the Grand the last two nights of this week, and there will be a special children's week, and there will be a special children's matinee on Saturday.

"Blind Tom" gave a piano recital at English's last night, with a fair attendance, despite the unpropitious weather. The program included seventeen numbers, several of them original. Formerly "Blind Tom" was accompanied by a lecturer, who interpreted the program, but this task is now assumed by Tom, who always speaks of himself in the third person. Some years ago there was an operation performed on his eyes, by which he can see a little, so that he is not entirely blind. His wonderful ability as a musician is known to the public, to whom he has been a ramiliar object for years. The entertainment will be repeated to night and to-morrow, and there will be a matinee to-morrow afternoon.

"The Huguenots" was the chosen opera Saturday night at English's, marking the only appearance for the season of the Juch Grand Opera Company. A grand audience was present.

The Visiting Knights of Pythias. About five hundred Pythians with "vizors down" marched under the triangle Saturday evening in spite of the mud and sloppy weather. The Chicago delegation did not weather. The Chicago delegation did not reach this city until after 7 o'clock, and it was nearly 9 before the Castle Hall was entered. The Cook County lodges represented were Aldine. Arcadia. Sparticus, Scotia, De Molay, Garden City, Banner, Gauntlet, Lake, Washington and Ellsworth. Four lodges from Dayton, O., one from Columbus and one from Terre Haute were also represented. The amplified third rank was conferred on six candidates from Chicago.

plified third rank was conferred on six candidates from Chicago.

A banquet was served in Mozart Hall, and during the evening many of the visitors were made "Princes of the Orient." according to the improved methods in vogue in this city.

Indianapolis Lodge, No. 58, which is one of the largest and richest lodges in the city, as well as the owner of a superb outfit for the amplified work, did not take part in the entertainment, because of a misunderstanding.

A number of the Chicago knights, thinking their tickets good until to-day, did not go on the train yesterday. In consequence they had to pay full fare home again.

Industrial Union for Students. The Students' Industrial Union is a newlyformed co-operative organization, whose ob-ject is to furnish to members desiring it, the means of acquiring an education, while at the same time earning a living, by employing them a portion of the day in remunerative work, and providing for them instruction and facilities for study in the other part, half the day usually being spent in each. Besides the usual branches of school instruction, it is proposed to give assistance in special studies, and in preparation for various kinds of work. The Union is a corporation, and its affairs are managed by a board of directors, who serve without compensation, thus leaving the earnings of the business to be used for the benefit of the workers, partly in wages and partly in school privileges. The stock of the corporation is divided into shares of $10 each, and the subscriptions to stock furnish the permanent capital, all current expenses being paid out of the carnings. The association has an office in room 10, Vance Block. means of acquiring an education, while at the

That Intolerable Obstruction The Washington street sidewalk in front of Becker's new building still remains impassable. The public has not been allowed to tread it since the 17th of March—nearly seven months—and from present indications it will be some time yet before the walk is opened. In the meantime needstrians will have to conmonths—and from present indications it will be some time yet before the walk is opened. In the meantime pedestrians will have to continue to wade through the mud to get around the unlawful obstructions. Since the accident that obstructed the walk many new buildings have gone up and have been occupied. But it seems this sidewalk is too big a job to be completed in a season. It takes years to put up great works like the Soldiers' Monument, the State House—and this sidewalk.

Superintendent Travis has instructed the officers to notify the merchants to remove all obstructions from the sidewalks at once. The filing of affidavits will begin at once under the Hicklin ordinance. Can't something be done under this ordinance to clear a Washington street passage?

Black Cat and Kittens in the Organ.

Black Cat and Kittens in the Organ.

The members of the children's class at Fletcher Place M. E. Church can not understand a happening that took place yesterday morning. When the class assembled and the cabinet organ was opened, a big black cat ran out and skipped around among the four and five-year-olds. Immediately strange noises began coming from the organ, and an investigation revealed four young kittens hidden away in the organ. The kittens were brought out and the children forgot their Sunday-school Jessons in the fun they had with the kittens.

Mudeats for Seventh St. The residents of Seventh street, from Illinois to Alabama, are anxious to know whether the President will be accompanied by the Pish Commissioner. They wish to consult him as to the kind of fish that will thrive best in the waters of that thoroughfare. They claim it ought to be put to some use, as there is not sufficient land there to do any good as a roadway. They hope mudcats will be the favored fish.

Bartlow, Johnson & Co. have brought suit against Wachstetter Bros., saloon-keepers at 25 South Delaware street, asking for a judgment of $500, and the appointment of a receiver. The complaint charges that Wachstetter Bros. have transferred their saloon to James Moore, for the purpose of avoiding the payment of the debt.

LEADING CLOAK HOUSE,

30 and 32 North Illinois Street. Opposite Y. M. C. A. Building.

Strangers in the city will be well repaid for a visit to LILLY & STALNAKER, 64 East Washington street. The largest and best assorted stock of Millions of dollars are employed in the manufacture of clothing. Consider what this enormous capital controls. It means that the best cutters, the best tailors and the best materials are monopolized by the big producers. The average exclusive tailoring shop pays its cutter but $1,000 to $1,500. The big manufacturers give their experts from $4,000 to $12,000 a year. Who gets the best talent? Their tailors are paid in proportion. Who secures the best workmanship? The small shops buy few pieces, the manufacturers buy by the case. Who gets the best materials and lowest prices? The manufacturer constantly scours the world for styles; he creates; the little tailor simply copies. One originates; the other imitates.

We give you the benefit of all these advantages. Call and inspect our lines of Fine Suits and Overcoats, ranging in price from $20 to $45. You will find a greater variety than is offered you by any tailor shop in this city; our workmanship, to say the least, is fully equal to theirs; our prices 25 to 40 per cent. lower.

Do you want the most comfortable as well as the most durable Shoe made? It so, buy a hand-welt (extension edge). The only Lady's Shoe that is entirely free from tacks, wax, thread and nails. See the ones we offer at the low price of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, Hats and Shoes.

I hat you fail to look through the great stock of CARPETS, WALL PAPERS, LACE CUR-TAINS, etc., before furnishing your home you do yourself an injustice.

There will be an unusually .

This fall and winter, and a cordial invitation is extended to all these happy young people to come and see what I have to offer in the way of the very latest furnishings before they set up housekeeping.
